Sefyllfa / Situation

This paper presents an update following the University Health Board (UHB) Management Response to the Wales Audit Office (WAO) NHS Consultant Contract follow-up review (2015). This report is provided for information purposes.

Cefndir / Background

Job planning is a mandatory process, which was emphasised as part of the amended Consultant Contract (2003) and more recently as part of the Specialty and Associate Specialist (SAS) Doctor Charter (2016). Job plans help to ensure that there is a clear consensus between Consultants, SAS Doctors and the Health Board as to what work is being done, where and when it will be undertaken, the number of hours/sessions that the individual is required to work, what work is expected of the individual and the resources required. Effective job planning results in alignment of individual's work, departmental objectives and strategic objectives, resulting in much more cost-effective delivery of healthcare.

In 2010, the Auditor General for Wales reviewed the job planning processes of all health bodies across Wales (with the exception of Powys Teaching Health Board and the Welsh Ambulance Services NHS Trust). The review looked at how well Health Boards were using the job planning process to realise the wider benefits of the contract. The report Pay Modernisation: NHS Consultant Contract, Hywel Dda Health Board was issued in February 2011. The report detailed six main recommendations that were identified by the review.

The 2010 review led to the publication of the Consultant Contract in Wales: Progress with Securing the Intended Benefits report, which was issued in February 2013. This report summarised the information gathered on a local level. The report states that the main conclusion from the review was that the intended benefits of the consultant contract amendments were not being realised due to ineffective job planning. The report outlined further recommendations for consideration and accordingly, the Welsh Government, NHS Wales Employers and BMA Cymru, worked collaboratively to produce updated job planning guidance for Health Boards in 2014.

The NHS Consultant Contract: Follow-up of Previous Audit Recommendations Hywel Dda University Health Board review was undertaken between August and December 2015 and the report was issued in June 2016. The Auditor General called for this follow up review, to establish whether or not the Health Board has fully implemented the audit recommendations for strengthening the job planning process, to achieve the potential benefits of the amended consultant contract in Wales. The six main recommendations that were set out in the Health Board's 2011 report were reviewed, along with the 12 national recommendations that were outlined in the 2013 report.

Of the six local recommendations set out in the Health Board's report from 2011, one recommendation (17%) had been fully achieved, two recommendations (33%) were ongoing but yet to be completed and the report also found that for three further recommendations (50%), insufficient or no progress had been made.

Of those 12 national recommendations from 2013, seven recommendations (58%) had yet to be completed fully but were ongoing, however, insufficient or no progress had been made in relation to the remaining 5 recommendations (42%).

Following receipt of the 2016 audit report, the Health Board were required to provide a management response (attached as Appendix 1), detailing the actions planned going forward, relating to recommendations 1 – 24. This action plan is monitored regularly and updates are reported to the local Audit & Risk Assurance Committee.

Asesiad / Assessment

Continual progress has been made in the job planning process for Consultants and SAS Doctors; however, on 16th March 2020, the decision was taken to stand down all job plan review meetings, to allow clinicians and service managers to concentrate on the increased pressures caused by the COVID19 pandemic. From this date, all job planning workshops were cancelled and no further reminders or general job planning information communicated.

The pandemic has affected the numbers of job plans which have been fully completed. However, the use of the online system, along with job plan schedules provided by service managers prior to the 16th March, have enabled a detailed report to be compiled which identifies how the postponement of reviews has affected the job planning process and corresponding job planning figures. The full report (Appendix 2), provides comprehensive information which corresponds to individual directorates and specialties and, when combined, provides the following Health Board summary:

Total Number of Doctors	418
Total Number/% job plans up to date and fully signed off or exempt	324	78%
Total Number/% job plans complete awaiting signing – delayed due to COVID19 escalation	35	8%
Total Number/% scheduled review meetings in March postponed due to COVID19 crisis	30	7%
Health Board % total (taking into consideration influencing factors detailed)	389	93%

These figures demonstrate that in the absence of the COVID19 pandemic, there was a high likelihood that the numbers of up to date Consultant and SAS doctor job plans at the end of March 2020 would have exceeded the target of 90%.

In addition to the increase in the numbers of up to date job plan reviews, all job plans are now being created using the compulsory electronic Allocate system. As a result, this is helping to promote consistency in terms of job plan format, time allocation for activity and travel and furthermore, is helping to improve the quality of job plan information in terms of detail and clarity.

The SAS doctor job planning toolkit was agreed and signed off by the Local Negotiating Committee following the last meeting and has been distributed amongst all those involved with the process.

Over the coming months, the Medical Directorate will continue to support the job planning process through (where possible) uploading job plan information from any existing paper job plans on to the electronic system, for further review by clinicians and managers when the time comes.

Argymhelliad / Recommendation

The Audit and Risk Assurance Committee is asked to:

- Note the progress made with regards Consultant & SAS Doctor Job Planning;
- Note the efforts made with regards the online e-job planning software, Allocate.
